901 - Computer Applications Grade 9-12 ½ Credit

Prerequisite: None
This is a one-semester required course that begins with a general idea of the function and terminology of a personal computer's components, its software, and some types of computer networks. Then it will focus on introducing the most widely used PC applications software, including the word processor, the spreadsheet, the database, and presentation software. The course will use the MS Office Suite since the ideas and concepts are universal to most programs using the Windows operating system. The course will also stress the basics of good file management-how to create, save, and organize files for each type of application. Examples of practical uses will always be presented.
